Networking and Job Search Tools in Times of Uncertainty

Learn how to build relationships with professionals. It's not just about what you know. It's also about who you know, who knows you, and what they think about you. Don't miss this inspiring session! You'll learn about networking, how to convey confidence, and how to make small talk. We'll also discuss advanced interviewing skills and personal/professional branding. And there will be time to answer your questions.

About the Speaker

Sean O'Keefe is an award-winning professor and career coach, and the president of Launch Your Career and Superior Outcomes. Sean is also the Director of Impact for Empowered Students, a nonprofit organization that helps level the playing field for underrepresented college students in their transition to career.

Sean is a former community college student who now teaches at Santa Clara University in the Business School and in the campus-wide first-generation scholars program. Sean began his academic career at Diablo Valley Community College, graduated with a Bachelors from UC Santa Barbara, and completed his MBA at Santa Clara University. During college he EARNED internships and jobs with the San Francisco 49ers, San Francisco Giants, and Oakland A's...WITHOUT having any connections or the best grades. For the past 10 years, Sean has coached 1,000's of students to earn jobs and internships. Sean's full bio is available on the registration page.
